DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Applicant's election without traverse of claims 1-16 in the reply filed on 2/14/07 is acknowledged.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-4, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by USP 6,782,585 ('585).

The '585 patent discloses a housing (assembly of parts 28,60,24,74 (fig.4)), a nozzle inlet (27), a suction generator (described not shown), a dirt collection assembly (28) comprising an outer wall (36), an inner wall (46,50), a bottom wall (38), an inlet (32), an open end (opening between filter (72) housing and element (24)), manifold housing (74), a filter chamber (housing including filter element (72)) and filter element (72). The filter element is considered to be annular. The filter assembly is considered to include a frustoconical air guide (62). The discharge opening for the air guides is the opening leading to the filter element (72) and the discharge passageway is considered to be proximate the are identified by (40).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 1-4, are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over USP 6,810,557 (Hansen et al.) in view of USP 5,307,538 (Rench et al.).

Hansen et al. discloses a housing (12), a suction inlet (14), and a dirt collection assembly (550, 560), a suction generator (not shown but described), the dirt collection assembly (550, 560) having an outer wall (144) and an inner wall (570), a bottom wall (582), an inlet (152) and an opening (154), a manifold housing connected to opening (154), a filter chamber with filter element (572). The filter element is annular in shape. The Hansen et al. patent does not show a frustoconical air guide.

The Rench et al. patent discloses a vacuum comprising a frustoconical air guide (21) which by design concentrates the clean air through the filter element (23) and drops out the larger dirt particles into a lower collection chamber (93).

Accordingly, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to provide the frustoconical air guide of Rensch et al. into the dirt collection assembly (550, 560) in Hansen et al. for the known advantages and benefits disclosed in Rensch et al.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 5-16 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

The prior art of record fails to teach or suggest the structure defined in claim 5 in combination with the elements of claim 4.

As allowable subject matter has been indicated, applicant's reply must either comply with all formal requirements or specifically traverse each requirement not complied with. See 37 CFR 1.111(b) and MPEP § 707.07(a).

Information Disclosure Statement

Applicant did not provide copies of the foreign (JP) references listed on the PTO-Form #1449. Applicant is requested to provide those copies in order for the references to be properly considered.
